

Scam Trying to Access Residences – A scam call claimed to be from Dish Network, the satellite provider. The phone number on the caller ID was Dish Network’s customer service number. The caller stated that the company wanted to change or move the satellite dishes, and they needed to get into the house to move the receivers around in the house as well. The caller then asked the resident to give descriptions of the rooms in the house that contained the receivers. Fortunately, the resident became suspicious and recommended the people come on another day. Dish Network was called and learned that this was a scam and no one from their company had called. The caller obviously cloned the phone number for Dish Network. This is very disturbing because it shows the scammers are looking to get access into residences. They could be setting up to commit burglaries or other crimes. These criminals are believed to be in the local area. Phone numbers could easily be cloned to look legitimate.

Other Scams are claiming to be from Medicaid and computer providers. Do not give your personal information out (SSAN, Date of Birth or bank information).
